10th ANNIVERSARY WORKSHOP

CARIBBEAN WINTERSCHOOL

Objective

During your period of residence you will be faced with various cultural discussions about Havana as an expanding city of change. Thereby your subject-specific skills will be strengthened in context of contemporary issues as mentioned before.

The focus of the workshop is the development of an urban design concept in an authentic way of working with the help of conventional and even digital tools.

To focus on the international idea of the workshop groups should reflect a certain kind of diversity. Therefore each working group consists of participants from different schools and countries to create an unique environment.

Related to the old history of sugar trade in Cuba, the workshop will be located on a historic site of a former cane plantation. An old mansion offers great space to work on the objective together in a very special atmosphere.

Preparation Phase

The first task is focussed on a self-organized scientific analysis on common architecture literature, which leads to a first short presentation as a foundation for the subsequent workshop. Literature references will be announced soon after your successful application.

Workshop

The workshop concentrates on different areas of Havana every year. The Caribbean WinterSchool 2019 will focus the topic of shared spaces using the example of El Malecón. The exact task will be released within the first week of the workshop.

The design process will be accomplished by on-topic lectures by international renown professors.
